Nazis May Call Poland's Hand On Danzig's Status

Fortifications Against Polish Are Strengthened; Pact Signed With Italy

BERLIN, May 20—(AP)—Positive action by Germany to enforce the reich's demands on Poland appeared to be foreshadowed in Berlin tonight.

After a week crowded with significant events, three circumstances indicated Germany was about to call for a showdown on the Polish question. They were:

1. Announcement today by Chancellor Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter that fortifications are being built along the eastern frontier for defense against Poland.

Pool Armed Might

2. The visit of the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to Berlin over the weekend to sign on Monday the German-Italian military pact to pool the military strength of the two states.

3. An ominous speech at Cologne last night by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who said with great vigor that "Danzig and the Polish corridor have been placed on the debating agenda." The speech was featured by the German press today.

The solution toward which Germany seemed to be heading remained an official secret, but it appeared that Poland next week would be confronted with the new military pact; with notice that Germany's eastern defenses were strong and would be strengthened; and with Goebbels' declaration of an offensive against Warsaw.

New Defense Line

Construction of a new eastern defense line was disclosed in Chancellor Hitler's newspaper by Lieut.-Col. Von Wedel of the German staff.

"In 1938," he wrote in an

Relief Funds Are Headache To Assembly

Missouri's Social Security Demands Present Problem

JEFFERSON CITY, May 20—(AP)—Emerging from eclipse behind the Kansas City police bill furor is a legislative problem that is furrowing the brows of many lawmakers and state officils—how to find the money for Missouri's tax-eating social security program in 1939 and 1940.

The $29,750,000 bill passed by the house and now in senate committee falls $15,500,000 short of what the state commission estimates it will need for the two years and all of the paring the upper branch can do in other appropriations hardly will make a dent in the deficit.

Two suggestions are heard at the capitol now that the session is about over and the realization has sunk in that the assembly faces a stone wall on revenue. Both would dump the issue in the lap of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark.

Passing the Buck

One proposal is that the assembly pass the funding bills about in their present shape and leave it to the executive to call a special session if a relief crisis arises.

Another group insists the better solution would be to hike the figures in the social security measure somewhere close to the estimated needs, throwing the biennial budget far out of balance.

Then if tax revenue should exceed estimates, the money could be spent; if not, the governor

Canada Keeps On Welcoming King George

No Let Up In Round Of Demonstrations; Queen Makes A Hit

By FRANK H. KING

OTTAWA, May 20.—(AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth tonight rounded out four solid days of ceremonial welcoming to Canada, and in their "royal progress" through the North American dominion there was no let up in the enthusiasm of receptions and the fervor of demonstrations.

Geographically, the royal couple have seen but a very small part of Canada, but half of the twelve million people of this country live in the two great eastern provinces where French-Canadians and Canadians of British descent have been shouting in different languages but in the same spirit, "God save the King," and "vive le roi."

As for the queen she is the toast of this part of the American continent. If a man ever ought to be proud of his wife, his Britannic majesty, George VI, is indebted to the gracious Scotswoman who has won the Canadian hearts.

Long Birthday Party

Today was set aside for celebration of King George's birthday and it was one long public party.

In the uniform of a colonel of the Coldstream Guards, with a towering bearskin hat. the king saw Canadian soldiers perform an old British custom by trooping the color. Queen Elizabeth made her first public address and laid the cornerstone of the new Canadian supreme court building.

They lunched privately with Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King and a few of of his friends. They drove through Ottawa again, crossing this time the Ottawa river to Hull, Quebec, wound up their temporary residence at government house where 5,000 attended a garden party, went back to town for a big government dinner at the Chateau Laurier, with appearances on a

Auto Loan Co. Wins Suit For Return Of Car

A suit filed by the Auto Money Corporation of St. Louis against Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Clark, of Gravois Mills, was tried in the circuit court at Clinton Friday. Crawford and Harlan, of Sedalia, represented the plaintiff company.

The plaintiff company alleged it loaned the defendants $299.04 and took a chattel mortgage on a 1935 Plymouth coach. They claimed the plaintiffs made no payments on the amount and asked for the return of the car.

The defendants filed a counter suit, charging usury, and asked for $2,500 actual damages and $1,000 punitive damages.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff company and ordered the return of the car.

Stella Dickson Will Be Tried In October

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., May 20—(AP)—Stella Mae Dickson, 16, widow of the slain bank robber, Benny Dickson, was back in jail at Mitchell today after her attorneys conferred most of Friday with the federal district attorney here relative to disposition of the two bank robbery indictments pending against her in federal court.

George Philip, district attorney, said the case will await the October term of court unless the defense indicates a desire to enter a plea of guilty. Mrs. Dickson is charged with complicity in the robbery of the Corn Exchange Bank at Elkton on Aug. 25, 1938 and the Northwest Security National Bank branch at Brookings on Oct. 7,1938.

Expect Surrender Of Democratic Leaders

Boss Pendergast, R. E. O'Malley Seem About To Put Selves On Court's Mercy

KANSAS CITY, May 20—(AP)—The federal government's assault on alleged income tax evasions by outstanding Democratic political leaders in Kansas City apparently has reached the "mercy of the court" stage.

Tom Pendergast, 66-year-old boss of the Democratic political machine, is scheduled to appear before Federal District Judge Merrill E. Otis at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

While no announcement has been made that he plans to plead guilty to an indictment charging him with evasion of taxes on an income of $443,550 in 1935 and 1936, his appearance Monday was taken generally as an indication such a course of action is planned.

For More Leniency

If he pleads guilty, it has been indicated that Maurice M. Milligan, United States district attorney, whose efforts brought about Pendergast's indictment, would be willing to agree to more lenient treatment of him than if the case went to trial, which was scheduled for June 12 in Judge Otis' court.

Today, attorneys for R. Emmet O'Malley, deposed state superintendent of insurance, and Pendergast henchman, asked for and obtained a conference with Milligan.

O'Malley was indicted along with Pendergast by a federal grand jury on income tax evasion charges. The indictment charged

Rotary Talk On 'Main Street'

Guest Speaker For Monday To Be F. T. 'Tip' Brown

The importance of "Main street" as the center of the commercial, civic and social life of the community will be discussed at the meeting of the Sedalia Rotary club Monday noon at Hotel Bothwell.

The guest speaker will be F. T. (Tip) Brown, of Kansas City, who has been sponsoring a program of this kind under the auspices of the Better Housing Committee of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Brown avers that "Main street," like Topsy, has just grown up and that "it is high time that the commercial and civic interests of the community accord Main Street the consideration to which it is entitled by its importance." He will cite examples of where this campaign has met with outstanding success in other communities.

Favor Town Plan

No town, according to Mr. Brown, "is too small to have a town plan. Wherever people live in an organized community, guarded by a planning board of some kind."

"The cost of expert advice is small in comparison to the future benefits and is not a barrier of any consequence. If you want your town to forge ahead,

TARKIO, Mo., May 20—(AP)—Tommy Ogle, St. Joseph Pilot, landed safely with two passengers late today after the landing gear of his monoplane had been damaged in a takeoff from the Tarkio airport.

The passengers were Harold Waits and W. C. Williams, both of Fairfax. The plane is owned by Hugh Middaugh of St. Joseph.

Lamb Crop Better

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 20.—(AP)—Favorable weather conditions and good pastures have improved the early lamb crop this spring. Alfred C. Brittain, federal agricultural statistician, says that indications point to a 5 to 10 per cent larger crop than last year and that the lambs will be marketed as early as in 1938.

Sentence Two For Daylight Hen Stealing

Melvin Bale And J. R. Stevens Admit Part In Robberies

Stealing chickens in the daytime only draws petit larceny charges. Therefore chicken thieves have been spending their time in daylight stealing instead of night thefts, as if caught in the latter period they would draw a burglary or felony charge.

During the past week, members of the Sedalia Police Department and the State Highway Patrol have been making investigations in connection with several reports that chickens had been stolen in the daytime. The arrests of two brothers, Melvin and Eldon Bale, and of J. R. Stevens is the result.

On Saturday, petit larceny charges were filed against Melvin Bales and Stevens, and Eldon was released. Bale and Stevens appearved before J. C. Connor, justice of the peace, pleaded guilty and were each sentenced to ninety days and costs in the county jail.

Sheriff Gets Suspicious

The first "tip" on Bale and Stevens was received after they had appeared in Knob Noster and sold some chickens to a produce operator there. Sheriff Lee Williams, of Johnson county, was at the place and, becoming suspicious, took the license number of the car and copied the names the parties gave.

He notified Sergeant P. E. Corl and Trooper Lester V. Estes, who in turn contacted the local police department and the sheriff's office. Then during the past week, a farmer residing in the Spring Fork neighborhood saw a car with two men in it trying to catch chickens, but before he could get close to them they had departed.

However, he called a neighbor down the road and told him to watch for the car. This was done and it was learned it was

More Evidence Made Public On Un-Americanism

WASHINGTON, May 20—(AP)—The House committee on un-American activities, making public additional details of evidence it has gathered concerning an alleged plot to overthrow the government, disclosed today:

1. Testimony that George Deatherage of St. Albans, W. Va., chief of the Knights of the White Camellia and linked in the testimony with anti-semitic propaganda, had suggested a conference of leaders of "large groups on our side of the fence."

He suggested they call "Father Coughlin, Winrod, Lodge Curran, John Frey of the AFL, Homer Chaillaux of the Legion, as well as other veteran leaders, Taber of the Grange, Garrison of the Associated Farmers." The individuals were not further identified. (The conference, the committee was told, never had been called.)

2. That Dudley Pierpont Gilbert, socially prominent New Yorker, had testified he feared "a revolution before snow flies and that's why I'm working like hell on a house in Kentucky."

3. That it was at the Harmonie club in New York that a waiter was alleged, in testimony given to the committee, to have overheard from time to time, details of a plot to overthrow the government.

Banks To Close On Saturday Noons

St. Louis Mayor Praises Elks As Patriotic Group

Uses Dynamite In Hammer; Then Boom

ZOLTON, Conn., May 20—(AP)—Woodchopper Louis Giglio, 23, looking for something with which to wedge up the loosened head of a sledge hammer, found a small piece of metal. He didn't know what it was, but he used it.

Attendants at a hospital in Manchester, after patching up Giglio's lacerations and abrasions, told him it was a dynamite cap. He was not seriously hurt.

Bernard Dickmann Speaks At Banquet; C. Lew Gallant Is New President

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, now in its seventieth year, is on the forward march as a great American patriotic organization, Bernard F. Dickman, mayor of St. Louis, told three hundred men and women assembled at the Elks banqeut, last night at the First Christian church. The banquet was the outstanding event in the activities of the twenty-ninth annual state convention of the order, which closes this morning.

The organization holds such a place in American life today, said Mayor Dickman, because as an order it draws no distinction in religious or political affiliations, and because of the three elements on which it is founded: a greater patriotic citizenship, a belief in the existence of a Supreme Being, and fidelity to American ideals and institutions.

Coming Grand Lodge Meet

The mayor closed his address with a brief discussion of the main events at the coming Grand Lodge convention, which will be in St. Louis in July. He announced, among other events, that he had secured the consent of the managers of the Browns and the Cardinals to have a ball game in St. Louis on Tuesday of the convention week.

Such a game has not been played, he said, in over seventy-five years. He announced also that the convention parade will be held at night, instead of in the afternoon, and that each of the 48 states will have a float, typifying some period in the history of America.

Mr. Dickman was presented by Dr. Don Silsby, of Springfield, retiring state president, who presided as toastmaster.

Quartette From Springfield

After an invocation asked by the Rev. B. B. Bess, of Sedalia, the Elks quartette of Springfield entertained with several vocal numbers. D. E. Kennedy, of the Sedalia Lodge, gave a short history of this lodge, which is observing the fiftieth anniversary of its organization.

Six state past presidents were introduced. They were Otto Botz, Jefferson City; Harry Garrison, Warrensburg; Dr. M. E. Gouge, Sedalia; E. J. Mart, St. Louis; Dwight Roberts, Kansas City, and J. H. Dickbrader, Washington, Mo.

Joe Glauber, St. Louis, and Henry C. Salveter, Sedalia, were introduced as the district deputy exalted rulers of the eastern and western half of Missouri, re-

Miners Call Halt To Mass Meeting Plan

National Guard Had Ordered Gathering Severely Restricted

HARLAN, Ky., May 20—(AP)—United Mine Workers (CIO) tonight called off a scheduled Sunday mass meeting in this troubled soft coal mine area following issuance of a military order of restrictions.

William Turnblazer, president of the Harlan District UMW, issued a statement in which he said:

"In order to prevent wholesale arrests we shall not attempt to have a mass meeting in Harlan county on tomorrow."

At the same time Turnblazer announced the signing of the "first commercial mine" contract containing the controversial "union shop" clause with the Black Star Coal company at Alva, in Harlan county.

About 800 Affected

This mine employed about 800 workers normally. It is not a member of the Harlan County Coal Operators' Association, the largest soft coal operating group holding out against the "union shop."

Forty-six men were held under $1,000 bond each tonight after an ambushed group and national guardsmen engaged in gunfire but tension in the Harlan coal field strife appeared to have eased

Charged With Drunk Driving

Otto Hancock was arrested early Saturday morning by Sergeant Paul E. Corl, of the State Highway Patrol and charged with driving a car while intoxicated. His arrest came after he was involved in an auto accident two miles west of Sedalia, on highway 50.

According to the report, Hancock was driving west on the highway and a car belonging to Coleman and Breedlove of Lebanon, driven by Roy Coleman, was headed east on the highway. The cars crashed almost headon.

Hancock was released on bond by Justice of the Peace Bell Hutchinson. His hearing will be held this week, it was said.

Columbia Host To 1940 Elks

At the business session of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Benevolent and Protective order of Elks of Missouri Saturday morning, Columbia was selected as the place for the fall meeting, and Excelsior Springs was chosen as the convention city in 1940.

The delegation voted to establish headquarters for the Missouri Elks Association at the Melbourne Hotel in St. Louis during the national convention which will be held the week of July 10.

A float to cost more than $400 will be entered in the parade at the national convention, representing the Missouri Elks Association. Also it was announced the Musicians Post American Legion band, St. Louis which won the national American Legion contest, will head the Missouri delegation of Elks at St. Louis.

The Washington lodge band will also join the Missouri delegation, as one of the official bands.

I. H. Dickbrader, of Washington, invited the Missouri Elks to attend the Washington Missouri Centennial celebration on May 28, 29 and 30th. The twenty-ninth has been turned over to a celebration to be sponsored by the Washington Elks lodge.

Englund Victor In Battle With Big Blacksnake

Relaxing in the office of the chief of police, having his midnight lunch, Anson Finnell, night officer, was startled Friday night to see a large blacksnake—actually fifty-seven inches long—crawl out from under the chief's desk.

Without hesitation, Finnell scrammed. Zone Anderson, night chief doubted his story and bravely walked into the office. Without hesitation he too scrammed.

In a few minutes, Lawrence Englund, walking the Ohio street beat at night, came into headquarters. The two officers told him of their uninvited guest. "Let me see it" said Englund. He walked into the office, picked the reptile up by the tail, swung it around several times, then cut its head off.

Finnell went back and continued his lunch.

Hughesville To Get New School

The old school building at Hughesville, erected in 1917, was used for the last time Friday, for a program and dinner in connection with the closing of the present school year.

When the pupils return next fall, they will be in a new brick building which has been under construction for the last few months. The program at the dinner was presented by the teachers and pupils of the three grade schools and the high school speech class.

Airline Service Between Europe And America Begins

By DeVon Francis
Associated Press Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, May 20—(AP)—A metal flying boat rose from a Long Island bay and pointed its snout eastward today to inaugurate, at last, airliner service between Europe and America.

Inside its broad, high hull, listening to the throaty symphony of its four motors, were 17 men, the first to cross the north Atlantic in an airplane operating by time table.

The start of scheduled trans-Atlantic transport flights from Manhasset was casual.

Not Much Ceremony

A few short speeches; congratulations, a message from President Roosevelt was read.

Then, Arthur E. La Porte, skipper of the 41 ½-ton "Yankee clipper," turned to Juan T. Trippe, president of the operating company, Pan American Airways. La Porte saluted.

"Captain La Porte," asked Trippe, "is the flight in order?"

"The Yankee clipper is ready, sir," responded the skipper. "All stations are manned. Standing by for orders, sir."

Trippe nodded. "Very well, captain. I commit to you these manifests for the first United States air mails for transatlantic

The Old Dream Of Zionism Fades

Still one more of the problems which men hopefully believed were settled at Versailles now proves to be, twenty years later, far from solution.

It is that of the age-old Jewish dream of a homeland in Palestine. Under British mandate, the beginnings of such a homeland have been made. Thousands of Jews have returned there from many countries of the world. They have worked hard, invested capital, created the beginnings of a Jewish state.

Now Britain, exasperated at years of friction when it has had to interpose troops between factional fighting of Jews and Arabs, apparently wishes to liquidate the whole thing so far as she is concerned. The empire would withdraw its mandate, withdraw its troops, and leave behind an Arab state in which no more than a third of the population might be Jews.

Thus the world is presented with a new problem which is almost certain to become acute. Jews in many lands have actively supported the building of a homeland in Palestine, mimigrants have gone there from many lands as to a refuge. Will they stand helpless and see these immigrants become a mere minority in an Arab state? It is not likely.

Already in eastern Europe plans are on foot to recruit a military force from Jews of many countries, a sort of Foreign Legion, for service in Palestine in case the Jews there find it necessary to defend themselves and the gains they have already won.

The Palestine problem is a complicated one, on which even all Jews are not completely united. It is a subject on which most Americans are not widely informed, yet none can stifle an involuntary sympathy for a brave effort which has suffered so rude a check.

Certain facts are pretty clear as regards British policy. With immense interests in the Far East, with millions of Oriental subjects, the British are evidently unwilling to risk offending the Arabs, who were allies during the World War, and are now closely kin to Turkey, newest British ally of today.

Thus it is clear that the fate of Palestine as a Jewish homeland is deeply affected by the great streams of international politics, and is not a problem that can be considered in a vacuum, or as an abstraction. The gallant effort of the Jewish people to establish a refuge and a homeland has been caught up in vast tides. Today it floats like a chip upon the angry waters of the world.

Congress Helps Itself

Economy, like charity, might be expected to begin at home. But when it came to voting themselves another secretary apiece at 1,500 a year, congressmen fell over each other to vote "yes." By the time the senate does the same, the extra cost will be a mere million dollars a year.

Now this may be entirely necessary. But it remains true that the same congressmen who abused Roosevelt as prodigal with the nation's money, have cut down his relief estimates and raised his budget ante on practically every other count. Now they are helping themselves to an extra clerk to help those already available through a clerk-hire allowance of $5,000 a year.

When you find (if you ever do find) a congressman who will vote against an appropriation affecting his home district or his own office, then you will find a congressman genuinely and sincerely devoted to the economy he preaches.

And not before, and not unless.

New Government Device

Local and state government is supposed in the United States to act as a laboratory to try out new devices of government which, if successful, the whole country might adopt.

The states have not been as resourceful in this regard as they might have been. But New Jersey is now trying something worth watching. It has established a state department of local government.

For the first time, the National Municipal league reports, a state embarks on a program of continuous and comprehensive guidance of the affairs of its cities. The department will seek uniformity of records and accounting, so that cost comparisons between cities can be made. It will give free and competent advice to any city in fiscal or administrative problems. It will center in one responsible agency the administration of all state laws relating to and regulating municipal practices.

If this works, it might give badly-needed aid to municipal government, long a weak spot in American public administration.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON— Most important branch of the Government today is the State Department. It is more important than the Army and Navy because its job is to keep the nation out of war. And it is more important than any of the government departments relating to economic welfare because those departments are out of luck once war breaks.

Despite the importance of the State Department, no government agency in all of Washington is more underpaid, understaffed and worse equipped to handle the vast responsibility placed upon its shoulders.

This is true even at a time when the State Department is asking for tremendously increased powers under a new neutrality act, powers which may permit it to place the United States on one side or the other in case of war.

Many Senators, generally sympathetic with the idea of loosening the rigid neutrality law, hesitate to give that discretion to the State Department as it is now organized. They believe that before Mr. Hull's career boys get more power, they should first show that they deserve it.

Snobbish Isolation

Basic trouble with the State Department goes back to two things: (1) lack of money; (2) isolation from the USA—some people call it snobbishness.

The constant wail of the career men themselves is against the isolation tactics of Hiram Johnson, William E. Borah and other Western Senators. They claim that the United States no longer can remain cut off from the world, in the isolation of its earlier days.

In this, Mr. Hull's boys may be right. But they, in turn, commit the same sin. They live in virtual isolation from their fellow men.

The career diplomat who has soiled his hands with manual labor, or rubbed shoulders with the great mass of the American people, is as rare as an anti-Hitler Nazi.

Equally rare is the U. S. diplomat who knows the Middle West. Some of them were born there, but left after the diaper age and have been too busy touring foreign capitals to return and tap sentiment in that great cradle of American isolation—the Mississippi Valley.

Moreover, all the high officials of the State Department, except for Mr. Hull himself, were born, bred and reared on the Atlantic seaboard.

Eastern Monopoly

Calling the role of the State Department's top-notch executives, Sumner Welles, Under Secretary of State, is from New York and Maryland; Assistant Secretary Adolf Berle, is from New York, Francis Sayre from Pennsylvania and Boston, George Messersmith from Delaware; Walton Moore, Counselor of the Department is from Virginia; Jimmy Dunn, political adviser is from Newark, N. J.; and Stanley Hornbeck, another political adviser, is from Massachusetts.

Of the men who really determine American foreign policy, not one comes from west of the Allegheny Mountains, and it is even rare when one of them go as far west as Pittsburgh or Chicago to deliver a speech on U. S. foreign policy.

Learn From The Press

The State Department might take a lesson from one of the nation's largest press associations, which employs Midwestern newspapermen because most of its clients are in the West. It does this on the theory that a Midwestern newspaperman living in the East understands what his home town newspapers want to print.

Likewise, the State Department might pick or train its men so that they will understand sentiment in that part of the country which exercises such a veto power on American foreign policy.

Whether the State Department likes the Midwest or not, it has to do business with the people there; so it might send its career boys west of the Mississippi every year to rub shoulders and get re-Americanized.

Penny-Pinching

Second major cause of State Department inefficiency is lack of money. Why this should be, only Cordell Hull and the inner diplomatic circle knows. With billions being spent for relief, rearmament and agriculture, a few extra millions might be spent on the branch of the Government charged with keeping the nation out of war.

Instead, the State Department is receiving only $17,000,000, compared with $553,000,000 for the Army and $616,000,000 for the Navy. And of that $17,000,000, the State Department raises $4,000,000 itself in consular and passport fees.

In fact, while every other government department has been reaching its hand into the Treasury, the State Department actually is getting $2,000,000 less than it did in Hoover's day, when its 1932 budget was $19,000,000.

Only reason the State Department is not getting more is because it is not asking for it. Cordell Hull, as a former member of both the House and Senate, could write his own appropriation ticket. Some of the isolationist Senators have even told State Department officials that their present budget was equivalent to penny-pinching at the expense of national safety, and that they could have any reasonable increase.

Yet the State Department does nothing. Its budget this year is $1,000,000 less than last.

Rich Man's Club

Only a few years ago it was an established fact that the career boys wanted to keep salaries low so that the State Department, for a long time a rich man's club, would be accessible only to those with private income.

Most people have thought that those days were over. However, this still may be the mystery behind the State Department's continued insistence that its young men live abroad on what would be starvation salaries if they did not have private means, and in circumstances where they must do a large amount of entertaining.

All of this is making several Senators think twice before they vote for increased State Department discretion under the new neutrality bill. They argue that in time of war, both the Army and Navy expand their forces, bringing in the best executives that business can produce.

But for the State Department, the time of greatest need is just before the war clouds bread—in other words, today. And in the present period of tension, this all-important branch of the Government is understaffed, underpaid, bringing in no new blood, content to sit tight while the world—and perhaps also the United States — drifts steadily toward war.

CHAPTER I

DUKE MARTIN'S apartment, like himself, possessed the insidious charm of easy spending, of good living. Yet few knew how well the Duke lived. Only a handful of the people who swarmed into the Dove, the night club he owned with Nick Hart, on E. 53d street, had ever been to Martin's hide-away on the 45th floor of a New York skyscraper. Those who got in enjoyed the fragrance of exotic flowers, thick carpets, low lights, heavy silk hangings, satin-covered couches, and a buffet which displayed the best brands. But no one ever entered the Duke's apartment without paying in the peculiar coin he demanded.

In his bedroom this evening two men looked on while he eyed himself thoughtfully in a full-length mirror. Critically, he studied the line of his midnight blue Tuxedo, the knotting of his black tie, the patent leather sleekness of his dark hair and the magnificence of the star sapphire on his little finger. The Duke was big, almost too big for his clothes. You could see his muscles flex, then bulge, as he moved his arms, but his movements were graceful. No awkwardness here. Sinister strength, heightened by a pale skin and the solid black eyes.

Whatever the others thought, the reflection in the mirror did not meet with his approval.

"You're not doing so well, Bill." He spoke sullenly to his valet. "I look too new."

Bill Condon mumbled. "Honest to God, Duke, this business has got me. Just because I look like a Jeeves doesn't mean I've the soul of a feller what knows ties and collar buttons. Put me back on the camera. Why, a fellow's liable to wind up cuttin' paper dolls if he follows this racket!"

Bill had the features of an English aristocrat, (there was a good deal of speculation as to where he got them), a soft heart and a hand with a hard right punch. Even though his devotion to the Duke brought him into contact with Society, he still thought anyone who stepped on the East side of Fifth Avenue was a sissy. He came from Hell's Kitchen.

NICK HART yawned. "Quit going Duke of Windsor, on us, Martin. Them Park Avenue guys will like you better if you drop the swank rags and be yourself." He drew his 200 pounds up. "Now look at me. They take me as I am, a big hunk of good-natured fat from Hell's Kitchen. Not to change the subject, I think I gotta idea!" The Duke smiled sarcastically.

"What about servin' 'em old bootleg in fancy brand bottles?"

Martin snapped at him. "For God's sake, quit being a nickel and dime thief. We serve the best, charge the most and make it hard as the devil to get in. I want Park Avenue in the joint, not the firemen from the sticks."

He was interrupted by the ringing of the apartment buzzer. All three men faced the door, Bill and Nick put their hands on their hip pockets. "It's your job to answer doorbells, Bill," said the Duke. "Step on it."

A wave of expensive French perfume floated through the apartment as Bill opened the hall door.

Illustration by E. H. Gunder.

All three men faced the door, Bill and Nick put their hands on their hip pockets.

With it came the gushing tones of a woman, the tinkle of bracelets and the rustle of silk.

Nick smiled and waved a pudgy hand, "Enter Mrs. Mortimer Rutherford Thompson. The Pro of the Four Hundred. Knows how to sit down, how to stand up, how to smoke a cigaret, what to do with your knife and fork and will teach others at $100 per."

"Oh, Mr. Martin, are you ready for your lesson? I'm so thrilled to be here." Tuckie Thompson swished in. "I'm not standing on ceremony. I know you need me."

"That's what I got you for, Tuckie," said the Duke, "to tell me and my night club where to get off." His mouth twisted into a smile, but his eyes were cold and hard. "Sit down."

TUCKIE perched herself on the Duke's taffeta-draped bed.

A glittering nitwit, the redness of her thin lips emphasized the ashiness of her blond hair. She glanced archly at the Duke. "You have possibilities, Mr. Martin. I felt that the moment we met."

Her face, though long, like a sheep's, and with something of the sheep's foolishness, gave the impression of extreme alertness; she had the quick movements of a bird, every one of them emphasized by numerous dangling bracelets. The most remarkable thing about her was this perpetual motion. If her hands were not fluttering, her ear-rings were swaying back and forth, like the pendulum of a cuckoo clock, or her china blue eyes darting aimlessly, or her foot tapping, or her shoulders moving upward in a shrug.

"Sure I have possibilities," said the Duke, "but I want to know, what's wrong with this coat, I paid enough for it, but it don't seem to have tone."

"It fits too well," said Tuckie critically. "Now my third husband, his mother was a Rutherford you know—"

"Never mind the Rutherfords," broke in the Duke. "I want to know what's wrong with me."

Tuckie jumped up. "Come!" She took the Duke's hand and started to lead him toward the bathroom, her shining satin gown trailing regally.

"Say," he objected backing away, "I don't like this."

"I'm just going to steam you," explained Tuckie, "to remove that new look. Dont' be a silly. Turn on the hot water, Bill. We'll shut Mr. Martin up a moment. It takes drastic measures to get those sharp creases out of his suit."

"And I spent de whole afternoon puttin' 'em in," mourned Bill, closing the bathroom door on a doubtful Duke.

A few minutes later Tuckie glanced at her wrist watch. "Now you may come out. There! You look much better," she exclaimed cheerily as the slightly damp owner of the Dove emerged. "The creases are gone. Here, let me brush the shine off your hair," reaching for a military brush on the dresser.

"I won't," complained the Duke.

"Very well. All in time." Tuckie hummed a little tune. "Let me see you walk into the room. Make an entrance."

Self-consciously the Duke eased himself out and back into the room.

"Did you ever hear of a man named Del Sarte, Mr. Martin? Let go. You're too purposeful when you walk. Practice the art of casualness."

The Duke didn't answer. Instead he studied himself in the mirror. Watching him Tuckie began reading from a list she had fished out of her evening bag. "These are the social errors you made last night; don't put your hands on a woman's knee. Besides you're too emphatic when you talk."

"Is that what emphatic means?" asked Nick.

"I feel like a fool," said the Duke abruptly.

"You're improving," said Tuckie. "Even now you could pass in Newport or Southampton."

The Duke, disgusted, made for the door.

"Here, you better take dis, before you go out," cautioned Bill. From the top drawer of the bureau he lifted a dark object, wiped it off affectionately with a silk handkerchief and slipped it into his boss's breast pocket.

"Okay," said the Duke.

It was his dress revolver.

Thinks House Will Support Farm Parity

Missourian Forsees No Trouble Passing Senate Amendment

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP) Representative Cannon (D-Mo), a ranking member of the house appropriations committee is convinced the senate amendment to the house agricultural appropriation bill, providing funds for farm parity payments next fiscal year, will be supported by the house.

The proposal to appropriate $250,000,000 for parity payments was defeated in the house when the bill was before that body. Cannon said the defeat was due to the attitude of a group of members who wanted another measure passed immediately. The senate's amendment would appropriate $225,000,000.

Forsees No Trouble

"I anticipate no trouble in getting the amendment through," Cannon said. "I understand, however, a member of the group opposing parity plans to object to sending the bill directly to a conference committee—something that hasn't been done on an agricultural appropriation bill for years."

In event an objection is made to a request for unanimous consent to send a bill to conference committee, Cannon said, it must under house rules go back to the house appropriation committee for consideration, then be reported to the floor for another vote. If senate amendments are not agreed upon it then goes to conference committee.

May Use Special Rule

But Cannon said it would be possible in event of objection to move for a special rule which would permit the bill to go directly to the conference committee without reference to the appropriations committee. Such a motion could be adopted, he said, by a majority vote of the house.

"If objection is made to the bill going to conference, members of the appropriation committee expect to ask the rule," he said.

Rose Talk No. 5

Black Spot on roses is caused by a fungus. The one measure of control that has been successful is by protecting the rose by covering the leaf with some fungicide that will prevent the spore of the fungus from penetrating the cuticle. Spores need moisture for germination, and under favorable conditions will send forth a germ-tube and penetrate the leaf within a very few hours. The problem then is to have the fungicide present on the leaves when the necessary moisture for germination and infection is present. This means that the fungicide must be applied before rains; that it must adhere to the leaf; that it must be highly insoluable that it is not readily washed away. Bordeaux mixture fills these requirements. This is doubtless one of the most efficient fungicides known.

It is possible now to buy a "three in one" spray, which will take care of your black spot or leaf diseases, the chewing, and the sucking insects at one spraying. This is Tri-ogen, and will save much labor in the spraying of your roses.

Beverage Alcohol And The Home
Text: Jeremiah 35:5-10; Ephesians 5:15-21; 6:1-4.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Temperance lessons are particularly needed at a time when the nation has been in reaction from drastic legislation concerning the liquor traffic and when habits of drinking have been so widely revived and have taken hold even in homes and among groups of people that a few years ago would have had nothing to do with alcohol.

It is generally recognized that a great deal of the good results attained in the long course of temperance propagandism in this country has been nullified by this reaction and by the whole spirit of the times, which emphasizes the trend toward excitement and the demand for artificial stimulation.

In times like these, it is well to take a long view and to get a right perspective. The bible helps us very much in attaining that, for here in this book that comes out of the intimate life of ancient times and ancient peoples we have enforced again and again the elemental facts and truths which our generation is tending to ignore concerning the nature and effects of strong drink.

* * * *

Perhaps we should put it a little more on the positive and constructive side, and stress what the bible says concerning the good effects of sobriety and abstinence from everything that weakens and destroys human will and morale.

This positive side is brought before us in many ways. We have the picture of Daniel and his companions, strong and healthy an of a fine countenance because they refused to touch the liquor and luxurious foods that the king commanded to be given them.

Here we have the story of the Rechabites who, under the leadership of Jonadab, were early teetotalers, pledging themselves forever from abstinence from strong drink and accepting this abstinent discipline for their families as well.

This strong and healthy aspect of the Rechabites was not entirely associated with, or confined to their abstinence from liquor. They lived in tents and had all the helpful and strengthening experiences of outdoor life.

* * * *

We are not likely to emulate the Rechabites in refusing to dwell in house, but we are perhaps reminded that abstinence from strong drink is only one phase of the foundation of healthful and happy living.

Temperance in its larger aspect implies an observance of all the laws of good health. It is the Christian's privilege and duty to redeem the time, even when the days and the surrounding environment are evil. Redeeming the time means, in effects, buying up the days and making them one's own by right and profitable living.

The closing verses of the lesson emphasize the application of all this to the home. There can be no sound or true society, as there can be no ultimately healthful living and favorable conditions for the individual life, except as good homes are maintained and relationships of love and loyalty are upheld in the family.

How seriously many homes of today have lapsed from that ideal, and how necessary it is that we should restore it if we would build strongly and well in church and state!

Bob Burns, the "Arkansas Traveler" at the Uptown Theatre Today, Monday and Tuesday

Bob Burns, the "Traveler" of the picture "Arkansas Traveler," quits as he says "a good job of hoboein" to straighten out the affairs of a small family in a midwest village. A printer by trade the "traveler" finds it simple enough to lend a hand in the newspaper owned by Fay Bainter, widow of a small-town newspaper editor. John Beal and Jean Parker have a romance to work out, and Irvin S. Cobb as the genial town marshal gives Bob sleeping quarters in the town's air-conditioned calaboose, so the "Traveler" finds living conditions very comfortable. Dickie Moore, as the son of Fay Bainter, learns to love Bob and the "Traveler" just naturally has to stick around and see things through, even to calling in his "traveling" friends to help him install the radio station that will pull the newspaper out of the red and whip the crooked politician who wants to run things. Co-feature is "Campus Confessions," with Betty Grable and Hank Luisetti, famous basketball star, in the romantic lead.

Laughton's 'Ginger Ted' Novel Role

Lauded by moviegoers and movie critics the world over for his sharp and pungent portrayals of such characters as Nero, Ruggles of Red Gap, Captain Bligh and Rembrandt, Charles Laughton has chosen to paint a screen picture of an entirely different character in his latest picture.

When "The Beachcomber" opens today at the Liberty Theatre, Laughton will be seen as "Ginger Ted," a character which springs from the pen of W. Somerset Maugham, famous English author who wrote the story on which the picture is based. Laughton makes "Ginger" come to life as he did in the author's words—a careless, drunken man, sometimes despondent, sometimes roisterous, born in England, but wasting his life away as a "remittance man" and beachcomber on a tiny island in the Dutch Malay. Vividly and deftly does Laughton show the facets of this man's character, demonstrating his gift for character roles to such a degree that Laughton seems actually to become the "Ginger" Maugham intended.

Elsa With Husband

Elsa Lanchester, who is Laughton's wife in private life, also has an important role in the picture. She is cast as Miss Jones, a missionary who finds "Ginger's" mode of living singularly unhelpful in view of her efforts to civilize the natives. She has been cast with her husband before, but never has a picture afforded her such a great chance to display her talents.

K. C. Firemen Meet The Merchants

Schrick Or Sullivan Will Do Mound Duty For Merchants, With Griffith For Firemen

Tentative lineups:—

Firemen		Merchants
Mangan *	1b	Livengood
Williams	ss	Light
Shieber	2b	Walker
Wicklund	3b	Taylor
O'Neil 	cf	Slayton
George	rf	Zey
Haire	lf	Barnes
Vile	c	Sumners
Griffith 	p	*Sullivan

* or Gallet;  or Pullins;  or Crooks, or O'Connor; * or Schrick, Middleton, Yeager.

The Kansas City Firemen today are bringing to Sedalia a "bang-up" ball club to meet the Sedalia Merchants on the Liberty Park baseball diamond. This has been assured with advance information from the visiting club's manager.

The lineup in accordance with the averages the players have had in minor and major league baseball speaks for itself. Haire played in the Nebraska State League last year averaged .340; Wicklund, for Erie in the Mid-Atlantic League average of .330; O'Neil in the Western League with a .330 average; George of the Industrial League in Kansas City, leading the league with a .417; Williams and Shieber both have had tryouts with the Kansas City Blues.

Wicklund, Mangan and George have been members of major leagues at one time.

The visiting club is composed of a bunch of "youngsters," none of the players being more than twenty-five years old.

The Merchants this past week have been undergoing some stiff workouts preparing for the coming contest which is expected to be one of the best of the early season. To date' the Merchants have won one and lost one on the home diamond. Their two exhibition games have been victories for the home club.

Manager Seigel is sure he will start either Sullivan or Schrick and holding back Middleton, Yeager or Horner for relief. It will be recalled the Warrensburg ace, Schrick, did well on the mound last week, although Sedalia dropped the game to the Lebanon Oilers 6 to 4.

An endeavor to give Sedalia baseball fans a good brand of baseball is being made by the Merchants and they need the support of the fans to continue in this route.

The game will be called promptly at 2:45 o'clock with Rugen behind the plate.

Missouri U. To Meet Oklahoma U.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 20—(AP)—The defending champion Missouri baseball team will take its perfect conference record to Oklahoma tomorrow for a two-game series with the Sooners Monday and Tuesday that will probably decide the Big Six title.

The Sooners completed a victorious series with Nebraska yesterday and now have only one loss in conference play. Missouri with ten wins need to split the series to hold first place.

The Tiger left hander, Carl Miles, undefeated in five starts, including three shutouts, will start the first game. Miles shut out Oklahoma, 1 to 0, last year in the final game of a series that gave the title to Missouri and forced the Sooners to take second place for the second straight year.

Lafayette Howard, Missouri right hander with four victories this season, will pitch Tuesday. Leo Griese, reserve outfielder, will play shortstop in the place vacated by the injured Harlan Keirsey.

Missouri completes its schedule in a series with Kansas here next Friday and Saturday.

Blues Journey To LaMonte

The Sedalia Blues will journey to LaMonte this afternoon where they play the LaMonte Merchants on their diamond at 2:30 o'clock. The Blues will endeavor to break into the winning column in this game.

C. Raynter will be on the mound for the Blues while Smethers will be behind the plate. Gilches will do mound duty for the LaMonte team while on the receiving end will be Dillion.

Sanders Chosen Track Captain

It is now Captain Tommy Sanders, the title came the past week when lettermen of Smith-Cotton's Tiger track team of 1939 met at the high school and elected Tommy to the honor. Tommy will captain the 1940 track team.

There is no argument Tommy is not qualified for the position to which he has been elected. He starred in football last year and was one of Coach Donald Davenport's main stays. In track, although he didn't set the world on fire, but he was consistent in the various events he was entered. He worked hard with Coach Jimmy Obermiller throughout the year and his work has brought him this reward by his fellow trackmen.

Tommy was a Junior this year and went into the Senior class this spring, he is back for football, will be back for track, and he will be a good influence over other boys who participate in both athletic events at the school.

Coach Obermiller in discussing the track team this year said he was more than satisfied with the results, especially in winning the Central Missouri Conference meet at Hannibal. He believes, with the loss of Rayl the loss shall be made up in other events in which the Tigermen will be able to continue with their outstanding record for 1940.

Jimmy Snyder Has Best Time

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20—(AP)—Jimmy Snyder, once a milk wagon driver in Chicago, captured the pole position today in the starting lineup for the Memorial Day 500-mile automobile race during a thrill-packed speed session which saw fifteen cars qualify for the race and Johnny Seymour of Grosse Point, Mich., escape with his life, when his car hit the wall and was destroyed by fire.

Snyder, widely known as a midget race driver, wheeled one of the six-cylinder Joel Thorne entries for the ten-mile qualifying jaunt at a speed of 130.138 miles an hour, breaking both the qualifying and one-lap records. His best lap was turned at 130.757 miles an hour. The old one-lap record, also held by Snyder, was 130.492 miles an hour. The old qualifying record was 125.769 miles an hour.

The thrills of Snyder's run barely had died down when Seymour, driving one of the trio of brand new rear-motored cars, built by Harry Miller, cracked into the wall at the northwest turn and the car burst into flames. Seymour either was thrown from the car or jumped. He was burned severely.

Everyone of the fifteen qualifiers today did better than 120 miles an hour—two miles a minute. The record-breaking started within a few minutes after 10 a. m., the time for the starting of the trials. Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., three-time winner of the race, first broke the qualifying record with a speed of 130.067 miles an hour. That stood until Snyder's turn.

Speedway officials said the crowd was the largest that ever had seen the trials. They estimated the attendance at 50,000.

Seymour's accident came while he was traveling about 120 miles an hour in a practice run.

Bombing planes, in an effort to evade the listening devices used in conjunction with anti-aircraft guns, climb to 35,000 or 40,000 feet and then glide toward the target for the last 40 or 50 miles with their engines throttled.

Browns Beat Red Sox, 9-5, With 14 Hits

Snap Six-Game Losing Streak; Win Is Kramer's Fourth

BOSTON, May 20—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns snapped out of a six-game losing streak today to comb four Boston Red Sox pitchers for 14 hits while gaining a 9-5 victory ending their two-day local engagement on even terms with the American League's second place squad.

The win was Rookie John Kramer's fourth of the season and even the brief return of ailing Jimmie Foxx, as a pinch-hitter for pitcher Emerson Dickman in the eighth, failed to aid the sox lost cause.

Foxx, back in uniform after a spell of hospitalization for sinus trouble, fanned.

Kramer allowed the sox 12 hits, but kept them scattered as his mates blasted Denny Galehouse, Monte Weaver, Dickman and Wade. Mel Almada, playing center field for the Browns, pulled the fielding sensation of the day, a running, one-hand catch of Tabor's liner in the fourth.

Race Driver Seymour Has Narrow Escape

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20—(AP)—Johnny Seymour, of Escanaba, Mich., driving a rear-motored race car, crashed into an upper wall during a practice run on the Indianapolis motor speedway today, but escaped with his life by jumping from the machine after it caught fire.

PROBABLY two of the proudest boys in Missouri were Glenn Harms and Ralph "Swede" Olsen, Junior Golden Glovers, who were presented with pictures of Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion of the world, taken with them recently.

The two lads fought on a card sponsored by the Sedalia Lodge B. P. O. Elks No. 125 at which time Dempsey was the referee. So impressed was the Manassa Mauler, that he requested a picture of the two boys taken with him, and "Bill" Padgett, Democrat-Capital photographer obliged. After the picture was taken Padgett made a "lay-out" of the two pictures, and they were sent to Dempsey, result: Dempsey autographed three pictures and returned them to the Sports Editor, who in turn presented them to the boys.

It was "Swede" who thought of mother on Mother's Day and having no money to buy mother a present, presented his mother with his prize possession, the picture of Jack Dempsey and himself which had been autographed.

No doubt these two boys will grow into a pair of the best amateur boxers Sedalia has ever seen. They love it, and will probably follow the sport for years to come.

THE "Grantland Rice" of the Elks Club had his predictions rather shattered recently when he made a boast to fellow lodge members and baseball fans that; Johnny Vander Meer, "southpaw" of the Cincinnati Reds was finished.

Discussing Pitcher Vander Meer, Babe said although he was young he was "ALL THROUGH, FINISHED, ALL WASHED UP, because he started four times and hadn't finished.

The very NEXT DAY Johnny went against the slugging Cardinals. What happened "Grantland" can't explain, but Vander Meer stayed the route, allowed the Cards four hits, and incidentally struck out both Medwick and Mize twice when there were men in scoring position.

BAD PREDICTION Babe.

HUGO Sparn, general chairman of the B. P. O. Elks annual convention, has had worries the past week. "Cousin" Hugo made many arrangements, even to completing plans for visiting Elk Golfers to play on the Country Club course.

Suddenly the past week Hugo screamed for HELP. "Here I have made all the arrangements for golfing, and wonder if I get challenged. Gosh Oh Me, I can't do that, I mean play any games, I'm too busy. A call for help was sent to other brother golfers, John J. McGrath and Ernest Gillespie of the Happy Morans, Emil Neff, a champion, and several others.

We just wonder if "Cousin" Hugo wasn't a little 'fraid his game MIGHT be off.

'Women Can't Golf,' Says Captain Davis

LEXINGTON, Mo., May 19.—(Special)—Paraphrasing Dryden's remark to Swift, "Cousin Swift, you will never be a poet," Capt. Owen Davis, golf instructor at Wentworth Military Academy shook his head sadly and said, "Sister, you will never be a golfer."

The captain who teaches golf to those who apply for lessons at the Wentworth Country Club, declared that women have a place in the home, they have a right in politics, but they have no business on the golf course.

"Golf is a man's game and it is next to impossible to teach women to concentrate on anything but the opposite sex," the captain declared.

Feller Beaten By Dutch Leonard

WASHINGTON, May 20—(AP)—Dutch Leonard, Washington knuckle-baller, limited Cleveland to nine hits here today to defeat the Indians, 6-3. Bob Feller started for the Indians and was the losing pitcher.

The Sedalia Merchants Baseball Club

Middle row: Barnes, Manager Siegel, Light, Sumners, Walker and McMackin.

Warneke Lets Dodgers Down With Six Hits

Cardinal Home Run Attack Slaughters Brooklyn, 9-1

ST. LOUIS, May 20—(AP)—While Lon Warneke subdued the Brooklyn Dodgers on six hits today, his St. Louis Cardinal teammates clubbed out 13 hits for a 9 to 1 victory, which kept them a few percentage points in front of the National league.

All the Cardinal hitting was divided among five players, with Don Gutteridge and Joe Medwick getting homers to set the pace.

The scoring started in the first inning when Jim Brown doubled and Enos Slaughter and Medwick walked to fill the bases. One run came in on a passed ball and Gutteridge singled in two more.

The two homers, each with a man on base, accounted for four runs in the fifth and two more crossed the plate in the sixth inning on four hits and a wild pitch.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers played a hunch by starting Rookie Russ Evans, the right-hander he drafted from a New York Giants farm, but the move backfired and Evans was charged with his fourth loss.

One of his previous setbacks was a 1-0 affair to the Cardinals which Pepper Martin won by stealing home. Evans' effort at retaliation ended when he was relieved in the third. Ira Hutchinson and Hugh Casey finished.

ST. LOUIS, May 20—(AP)—The defending champions, Oklahoma A. & M. College, easily won the thirty-second annual Missouri Valley conference track and field meet today, with a total of 70 5-6 points.

It was the second successive victory for the Oklahomans.

Wrestling In Mud Is Banned By Commission

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 20—(AP)—The Missouri Athletic Commission, in session here today, outlawed "team wrestling" and "Arkansas scuffling." Henceforth, the grapplers must pair off in two's instead of fours, if they are to appear in Missouri.

The commissioners also turned down an application from St. Joseph to stage a "mud wrestling" show, and repeated the game wasn't intended for the ladies, either. No permits will be granted for shows in which women are to appear as contestants.

Members of the commission are Chairman Russell Murphy, St. Louis; Lou Brosnahan, Kansas City, and Ben J. Harrison, Springfield.

High School Senior Wins Excelsior Title

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., May 20—(AP)—Danny Uzelac, 19-year-old high school senior from Kansas City, Kas., dethroned Grable Duvall, Jr., of Kansas City, as champion of the Excelsior Springs invitation golf tournament today. The match ended on the 17th hole, two up and one to play.

Uzelac went into the second nine two up, having shot one under par going out. He boosted his lead to 3-up going to the twelfth. Duvall picked up the sixteenth, and they tied the seventeenth.

Duvall has won the championship four times. This was Uzelac's second bid. He fell by the wayside in early competition last year.

John Munski, Missouri, Wins Mile Run Over Harris Of Kansas In Thrilling Race

AMES, Iowa, May 20—(AP)—Nebraska's Cornhuskers regained the Big Six conference track and field championship here today, scoring 56 9-10 points.

Dethroned a year ago by Missouri, the Cornhuskers came back today to outpoint Oklahoma's Sooners in what turned out to be a two-team race for the title. The Oklahomans collected 47 2-3 points.

Kansas State finished third with 32 and Kansas and Missouri tied for fourth with 31½. Iowa State was last with 26.

Bob Simmons of Nebraska established a new record in the 440-yard dash, winning in :47.7. Russell Dills of Missouri established the old mark of :48.6 in 1930.

Ray Harris of Kansas tied the conference 9:29.9 two-mile record. He defeated Charles Mitchell of Kansas State, the 1938 out-door champion.

Fred Coogan of Oklahoma, the early leader, could not match Simmons' finishing drive and placed second.

John Munski, blonde Missouri runner, earned a five-yard victory over Ray Harris of Kansas in the mile run.

Munski's time was 4:20.8, Missourian failing to approach Glenn Cunningham's conference record.

Half an hour after winning the mile, Munski returned to action to take the 880-yard run in 1:52.6, only four-tenths of a second above Cunningham's conference record.

Eddie Toribio of Oklahoma and Lloyd Wright of Nebraska tied for first in the 100-yard dash, the latter pulling up fast to get the time. The time was :10.1.

pectively.

M. O. Harmon, of the Maryville Lodge, presented a resolution expressing appreciation to the Sedalia lodge and Sedalia citizens for the hospitality shown the visitors during the convention.

Trophy to Washington

Otto Botz presented the Silsby award, a large silver trophy, to the Washington Lodge, for having done the most outstanding service the past year. This lodge, with only 150 members, contributed $1250 to furnish glasses, clothing and milk to underprivileged children. Columbia, which ranked second, was given honorable mention.

E. J. Mart, past president of the state organization and president of the St. Louis Rotary club, installed the incoming officers, who were elected Saturday morning.

They were: president, C. Lew Gallant, St. Louis; vice president, Southeast District, Dr. Carroll Smith, St. Louis; vice-president, Northeast District, M. F. Thurston, Columbia; vice-president, Northwest District, Joseph N. Miniace, Kansas City; vice-president, Southeast District, Lawrence Maher, Clinton; treasurer, B. L. Ellis, Trenton, and re-elected secretary, Ernest Baker, Washington, Mo.

Salveter a Trustee

Trustees elected were: Henry C. Salveter, Sedalia; Dr. Don H. Silsby, Springfield, and J. Harry Dickbrader, Washington, Mo.

Dr. E. F. Yancey was introduced to the guests as the only charter member of the Sedalia Lodge.

The closing event of the banquet was the presentation of a pen and pencil set to Dr. Silsby, by Otto Botz, on behalf of the state organization.

The banquet guests adjourned to the Elks home where a floor show, presented by Kansas City talent, was the entertainment. That was followed by dancing to music furnished by Metcalf's orchestra.

Reception for Ladies

The women visitors at the Elks convention have participated in most of the convention activities, and particularly enjoyable was the reception in the Ladies Lounge at the club Saturday afternoon between the hours of 3:30 and 5 o'clock.

An orchestra, composed of Miss Margaret Love, Mrs. J. T. Alexander, Miss Florence Hert, Miss Marian Smith and Miss Geraldine Teufel, played during the afternoon.

Mrs. Charles W. Green, chairman of the reception committee, and her assistants welcomed the guests and extended the hospitality of the Sedalia club.

Refreshments of ice cream, designed as an Elk head moulded on a purple background, cake iced with white and purple, mints of the Elks colors, and nuts were served.

Flags From St. Joseph

The purple and white flags, which have added considerably to the Elks convention decorations, were furnished by S. O. Struckberg, manager of Hotel Robidoux, St. Joseph, a convention visitor.

Among the convention guests are a Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, of Alaska, who, while traveling through Missouri, learned there was a state convention in Sedalia, and changed their route in order to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley live in the interior of Alaska and the first part of their trip was made by airplane. They then took a boat to San Francisco, where they attended the fair, and are now traveling by car to New York.

Movies And Radio Unhappily Wed, Joust For Television Control

Cinema Seeks Link With Equipment Makers; Hopes For Bigger Stake In New Ether Field

By Paul Harrison
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 20 — Both the movies and radio have had just about enough of their unhappy alliance, and they would like a divorce if each were not afraid the other might win the custody of television.

Of course, television, born prematurely, is still in the incubator. But the specialists say it's doing as well as can be expected. Hollywood hopes and believes it can grow up only with the aid of films and film players. But it's really radio's baby.

Recently the worried moviemakers have been scurrying around effecting alliances with makers of television equipment. Some of these have not yet been announced.

Paramount is associated with DuMont, and RKO with its rich uncle, the Radio Corporation of America. Metro or Twentieth-Fox or both, may be tied up with the Baird company which already is telecasting in a few London theaters.

Baird, in turn, has become a subsidiary of the Gaumont Britsh movie concern. Warner Brothers is sitting tight with a controlling interest in Musak, a system of "wired radio" which may be especially applicable in distributing television programs.

Films May Furnish Television Entertainment

Hollywood is receiving plenty of assurances that films, rather than live talent, will make up the bulk of television entertainment. William H. Preiss, head of International Television Corporation has pointed out some reasons:

Duplicates with sound on film, can be made cheaply and broadcast from all stations instead of being sent around the country over costly wires.

Programs can be edited and censored in advance.

Programs can be filmed with regular movie studio facilities and movie players when they are conveniently available. This would relieve one of the worst of Hollywood's current headaches because radio broadcasts and rehearsals now seriously disrupt production.

There are dozens of gueses about what practical form television may take, especially in the vital matter of financing. Sponsored programs certainly will be tried, and Hollywood already is jumping at the chance to advertise pictures by telecasting film trailers.

A trailer on "Gunga Din" has been sent to television fans in New York and London. And Paramount blandly has announced that it will use transmitters throughout the United States "to merchandise Paramount pictures through the medium of specially produced television trailers."

This hoopla may be a little premature since there is not yet any federal legislation controlling commercial television. Meanwhile holders of experimental licenses are supposed to keep their broadcasts strictly non-commercial.

The National Broadcasting Company is anticipating visual-radio advertising by sending 5,200 pamphlets each week to prospective advertisers and agencies. The booklets, titled "Television in Advertising," attempt to forecast the prospects of sight-and-sound broadcasting in selling products.

Hollywood Hopes For Big Share

Whatever happens, Hollywood is confident of a much bigger stake in television than it now has in ordinary radio.

All it has now is a mess of trouble with stars who can't figure why they should work so hard at the studios when they can make a week's salary with an hour's work in a broadcasting station. About two months ago, on a Sunday, movie stars received an estimated $130,000 for appearances on the air.

Sunday also is supposed to be a good day for movie theaters, but that one wasn't. From Miami to Seattle, owners of empty theaters set up a yell of anguish. They demanded that the movie makers withdraw their actors from the competitive medium of the air.

Since that day, Hollywood executives have pointed to these developments:

Tyrone Power went off the air. Metro announced discontuance of its "Good News" program, the only surviving studio show, effective next July. Alice Faye was declared to be off the air. A new Sunday show, "The Circle," became a semi-circle with the disappearance of Carole Lombard and Ronald Colman.

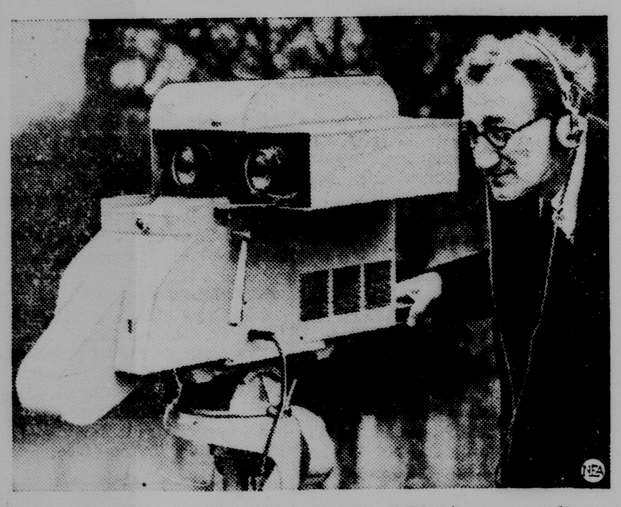
But while filmoguls were taking bows for the removal of stars from the air, an official of one of the largest advertising agencies told me authoritatively that Tyrone Power's contract had been canceled by the sponsor; that Alice Faye hadn't had a radio contract in a year and a half; and that the Metro show also had been shelved by its commercial sponsor, a coffee company.

The fading of Miss Lombard and other segments of "The Circle" had nothing to do with protection of movie exhibitors. They simply didn't like their material. Power didn't like his material, either, or his wage.

"The sponsors and the big advertising agencies are getting good and sick of Hollywood," said my informant. "We're especially tired of paying a lot of temperamental movie stars about ten times what they're worth.

"Merely, as big names, their appeal has worn pretty thin. In television they'd be all right, but just as voices most of them are less competent than trained radio performers. I think most of the big air shows will be moving back to the east soon."

Whoever wins control of television, this is how—and approximate size—you'll receive image on home sets.



A commentator speaks into television field piece on outdoors assignment. Movies and radio are jousting for control of prematurely born infant.

Miners Call Halt To Mass Meeting Plan

with few mines operating as Saturday generally is an "off day" for men in the pits.

The men were arrested late last night by national guardsmen some distance from the spot where the firing occurred. Lieut. J. C. Fleming of the troops said two pistols, a blackjack, a razor and knives were found in the truck transporting the men.

Out On Bond

John Padgett, arrested after the shooting of a miner yesterday, was released on $1,000 bond on a charge of "malicious shooting and wounding" after an arraignment hearing.

Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding the national guardsmen, issued the military order giving the United Mine Workers permission to hold the mass meeting. On reading the order earlier Turnblazer asked: "Who issued this, Hitler or Mussolini?"

The general's order said the time and place must be approved by him, parades will be prohibited, traffic on certain roads from sections where there have been disturbances will be "controlled."

By means of an upside-down "periscope" thrust through the floor of a plane, a photographer is reported to be able to direct the pilot in obtaining the best airviews.

could bring the income and outgo into line before signing them, and to hold up allotments after approving the bills.

Budget Unbalanced

By training a microscope on even the smallest items, the senate trimmed $720,000 out of four appropriation bills it passed this week. A reduction of at least $1,500,000 is probable in the omnibus measure, yet to be considered, but these savings barely will take care oif the $2,000,000 by which the house over appropriated the biennial revenue estimates.

One possibility on obtaining $7,000,000 for additional social security payments lay in a cut in the public school moneys from one-third to one-fourth of general revenue but the assembly has rejected all moves in this direction.

Most encouraging factor in the revenue situation is the upsurge of the 2 per cent sales tax, which yielded $450,000 more in the first four months of 1939 than it did in the same 1938 period. If the trend continues, the zinc tokens would bring in $2,500,000 additional for the biennium.

Front May Still Include Russia

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, May 20—Hopes Soviet Russia soon would be drawn into the British-French front brightened tonight when the two western powers agreed upon fresh proposals to Moscow.

The new approach to the stalemated negotiations between Britain and Russia was decided upon in conferences at which French Premier Eduard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet canvassed the entire European situation with British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to Paris.

Official statements were lacking but an authoritative source said the new plans would be presented Soviet representatives during the League of Nations council meeting opening Monday at Geneva.

"There has been an evolution of the British attitude towards the Russian thesis," this source said.

The exact nature of the proposals remained secret but a compromise plan was understood to have been worked out to provide for a limited mutual assistance pact to satisfy Russian demands without involving Britain too far in Eastern Europe.

The officials are requesting farmers to watch their chickens in the daytime as well as at night, and to make an immediate report to either the sheriff, the Sedalia Police or the State Highway Patrol so investigations can be started at once.

Expect Surrender Of Democratic Leaders

O'Malley failed to pay taxes on $62,500 in 1935 and 1936.

Government's Contentions

The government contends that O'Malley received the money from an alleged fund contributed by fire insurance companies interested in settlement of the $9,000,000 Missouri fire insurance rate controversy.

The government also charges that Pendergast received $15,000 from the fund.

The conferees in the O'Malley case today were Terence O'Brien and William G. Boatright, his attorneys, Milligan and Sam Blair, an assistant district attorney, and Judge Otis.

After the conference Boatright issued this statement:

"On next Saturday morning we will make an announcement as to what disposition will be made of the O'Malley case."

Won't Say More

Asked if that meant O'Malley will plead guilty, Boatright said: "That's all I can say at this time."

"That's all I know about it," Judge Otis said, refering to the statement. "He made the same statement to me in the presence of the district attorney. One reason for the delay was that more time was desired, a week of grace. Another reason for the date being Saturday is that I will be holding court in Chillicothe from 3 O'clock Monday afternoon until possibly Friday afternoon."

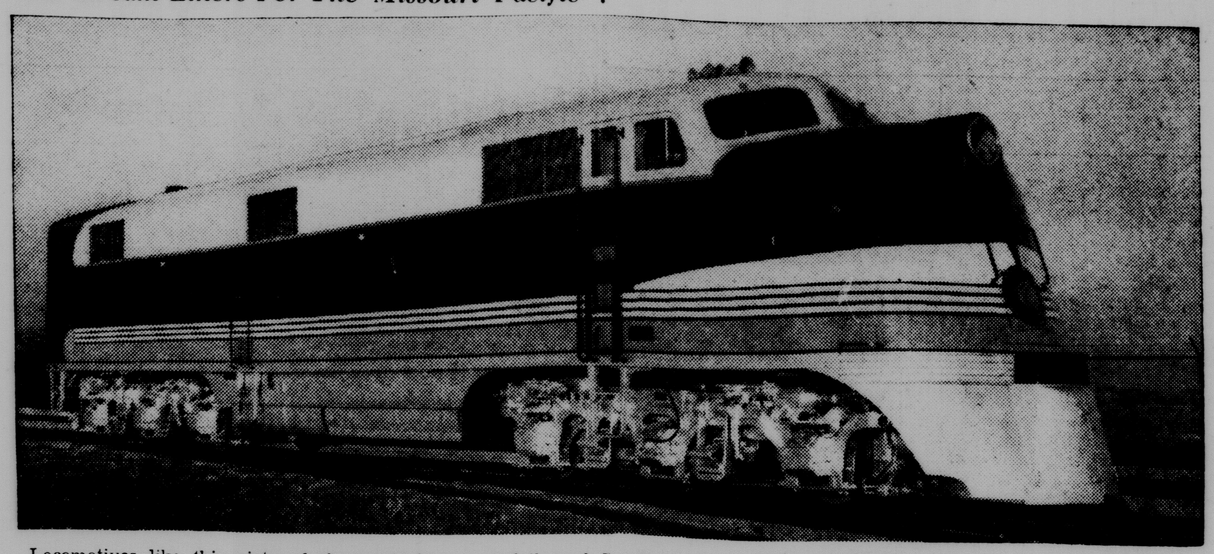
New Stream Liners For The Missouri Pacific



Locomotives like this pictured above will be operated through Sedalia on the main line of the Missouri Pacific this autumn from St. Louis to Kansas City and on to Omaha and return. They will be two thousand horse power Diesel-electric road engines. They will be powered by two 12-cylinder V-type Diesels, which turn generators that supply current for four tractor motors. The huge locomotives will be able to make a top speed of 110 miles an hour. The cab affords the engineer a full view of the track ahead. The color design of the locomotive will be made to conform to that for the trains, full details for which are being worked out. Stream line coaches will be utilized in the new high speed trains to be placed in service.

This Week In Missouri History

JAMES BUCHANAN EADS
One of the World's Great Bridge Builders and Hydraulic Engineers

James B. Eads was a noted engineer whose services and advice were sought both by the United States government and by foreign countries. He was the first native American to receive the "Albert Medal" from the Society for the Encouragement of Art, Manufacturing and Commerce of England, and with Daniel Boone and Mark Twain he now represents Missouri in the Hall of Fame of New York University.

Eads, the Napoleon of Engineers," was born of English-Irish parentage in Lawrenceburg, Indiana, on May 23, 1820, one hundred and nineteen years ago this week. He received very little schooling, but at an early age showed a mechanical inclination, building a miniature steamboat that would operate when he was only fifteen. His family moved to St. Louis in 1833, and for five years young Eads clerked in the merchandizing house of Williams and During, studying mechanics, machinery, and civil engineering at nights.

In 1838, Eads became a purser on a steamboat. In this work he had an opportunity to satisfy partly his boyish interest in machinery. He soon began work on a diving bell which he patented in 1842. Resigning his position he organized a company for salvaging sunken steamboats. He soon made a fortune, sold his interest in the company and established the first glass factory in the Mississippi valley. This venture was unprofitable and in 1848 Eads found himself $25,000 in debt. He then returned to the wrecking business and in nine years not only paid off his indebtedness but amassed a second fortune.

Call From Lincoln

From 1857 to 1861 he lived in semi-retirement, but during the latter years he was called to Washington by President Lincoln to advise with him on the best method of utilizing the western rivers for defense and as a means of attack upon the Confederacy. Eads proposed a fleet of armor-plated steamboats. When the government later advertised for bids he submitted one in which he pledged himself to build seven 600-ton iron-clad boats in sixty-five days. In forty-five days the ST. LOUIS, with her engines and boilers aboard, was launched. The six others followed in quick succession while an eighth, a remodeled wrecking boat, incorporated an invention of his for operating guns by steam.

In 1867 Eads began one of his greatest pieces of work—the building of the famous Eads Bridge. This arch of steel over the Mississippi river cost $7,000,000 and was at that time one of the greatest bridges in the world. As chief engineer of the Illinois and St. Louis Bridge company, which built the bridge, Eads was responsible for its financial as well as its engineering successes. During the seven years required to build the bridge Eads met hundreds of problems and solved them all. He invented machinery suitable to the need, and carefully worked out plans that were in turn responsible for the success of the enterprise.

His next great accomplishment was the deepening and widening of the mouth of the Mississippi river so that ships wishing to dock at New Orleans could have a direct path of entry. In the face of opposition from army engineers, the government accepted Eads' plan for constructing a series of jetties in order to harness the river. Theresult was the building of the now famous Mississippi jetties, which cut a deep and wide channel to accommodate ocean-going ships. This work placed him among the foremost hydraulic engineers just as his great bridge made him one of the world's leading bridge builders.

As an inventor and engineer Eads is one of the most remarkable men this State has produced. His advice was sought by many municipalities at home and abroad. He drew up the plans for improving the harbor at Toronto; was consulted on harbor improvements at Vera Cruz and Tampico; served in an advisory capacity to the Mersey Docks and Harbor Board of Liverpool; and helped solve many other problems affecting river navigation in the Americas and Europe. He died on March 8, 1887.

More Diversion Of Money Found

KANSAS CITY, May 20—(AP)—Diversion of $1,387,006.39 of city trafficway bond money for purchase of land was disclosed today in a report by Mathew S. Murray, director of public works.

This was the latest revelation in a citizens' campaign to clean up the city and Jackson county government which have been dominated by T. J. Pendergast, Democratic organization leader, under indictment for income tax evasion. Audits have been ordered at the city hall and the county court house.

Murray, a Pendergast lieutenant and also state WPA director, filed the report with the ten year plan citizens' bond advisory committee.

The report showed the $1,387,006.39 was used in purchase of the city hall plaza and garage property and the old convention hall site and other land in the same block in front of the new municipal auditorium.

"It was planned that these tracts of ground were to be used for auto parking purposes," Murray explained. "The handling of traffic by relieving of parking congestion is definitely a traffic problem."

Water Plan In The State Has Been Prepared

Submitted To Legislature By Planning Board

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 20.—The creation of an advisory water board with power to approve or disapprove future water projects affecting Missouri is recommended in a volume entitled "A State Water Plan for Missouri," which has been submitted to the legislature by the State Planning Board.

This Plan, which is the first comprehensive study of Missouri's water resources, was prepared under the direction of the Water Resources Committee of the State Planning Board with the assistance of the Federal Works Progress Administration of Missouri. It represents a cooperative effort of all the state and federal agencies dealing with water resources in Missouri.

The report seeks to present and coordinate the points of view of these agencies on the problems of flood control, municipal water supply, sewage disposal, pollution, navigation, irrigation, soil erosion, drainage, power, and wildlife resources in relation to water. The Plan inventories and analyzes existing water resources and, where possible, offers recommendations as to future use and indicates where proper information is lacking. Numerous specific projects, indicating how certain of the water resources of the state should ultimately be used, are proposed.

The Plan, which was approved by the Water Committee and the State Planning Board in 1938, was started in 1936. The work was done largely by technical assistance assigned by the State Planning Board, the National Resources Committee, The U. S. Geological Survey, the Missouri Geological Survey, the State Board of Health, and other agencies, and through a WPA project approved by Matthew S. Murray, State Administrator. The project provided for an average of fifty WPA workers including statisticians, draftsmen, typists, stenographers, and miscellaneous clerical assistance.

The members of the Water Resources Committee, under whose direction the Plan was prepared, were: Dr. H. A. Buehler, State Geologist, Chairman; W. Scott Johnson, Sanitary Engineer, State Board of Health; Prof. H. H. Krusekopf, College of Agriculture; L. J. Sverdrup, Consulting Engineer; and A. N. Reece, Chief Engineer, Kansas City Southern Railway.

Negro Leader Advises Grads At Lincoln High Exercises

Dr. Sherman D. Scruggs, president of Lincoln University at Jefferson City, in his address at the commencement exercises at Lincoln high school Friday night, recommended actions and attitudes that members of the Negro race should take in order to better fit themselves for places in industry. Thirty-two seniors received their graduation diplomas, presented to them by Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the Sedalia schools.

Dr. Scruggs, who became president of Lincoln University last July 1, after serving for 14 years as supervisor of instruction in the Negro schools of Kansas City, Kas., told the graduates they are members of a racial group that must do "an outstanding piece of work in order that they may maintain for themselves a respectable place in industry."

Good And Bad Points

He listed some of the things that managers of various industrial plants in greater Kansas City had to say about Negro workers. In addition to many commendable statements about them, some of the faults were pointed out, and the speaker listed these so that the young people would know how to meet such situations and win respect and praise.

Big business, he said, isn't concerned with the race of an individual, but with his ability to deliver the largest returns for the amount of money that the companies have invested in him.

"We must be more economical and less wasteful on our jobs," Dr. Scruggs advised. "We must be more regular in our attendance at work, and we must not sulk when reprimanded; let's stay by our jobs always and find fewer occasions to lay off.

Prepare For Rainy Day

"Irrespective of how long we have worked on a job, let's remain trustworthy through all the years that are ours to serve in those places," he said. Dr. Scruggs also proposed better regulation of finances and provision for the proverbial "rainy day."

He stated that the Negro race has made many notable contributions to the welfare of society, but admonished his listeners that "we must not merely stand idly by and be satisfied with our present contributions, but we must continue to see what we can do to improve the workmanship of all that our hands find to do."

Dr. Scruggs is the first and only one of his race to receive his doctorate from the University of Kansas. He received his Master of Arts degree at that school, and previously his Bachelor of Arts from Washburn College in Topeka, Kas.

A special musical program was presented for the commencement exercises.

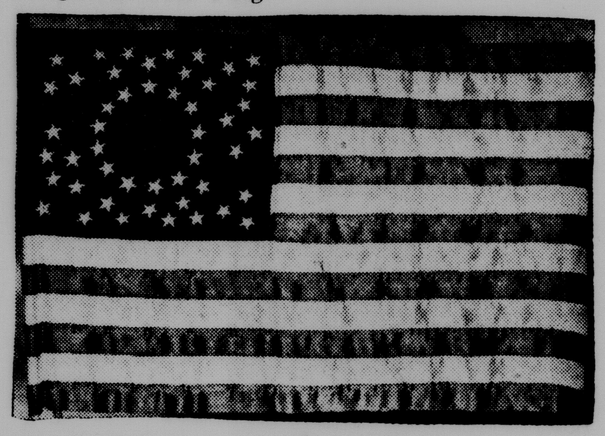
Proposed New Flag



Miss Dolly Breitenbaugh, of Lee's Summitt, has designed a new starry field for the American flag, as shown above, based on the original colonial flag. She was in Sedalia last week, guest of Miss Elizabeth Glover, and showed a sample of the new flag she has designed.

Miss Breitenbaugh was en route home from Washington, D. C., where she attended the D. A. R. Congress, and also presented the flag to Speaker Bankhead.

The new Old Glory as Miss Breitenbaugh has designed it would carry out the intentions of the Continental Congress in placing the stars in constellation so that each state may be found on the field in order of admission and the field leaves space for other stars.

Ideas for the original flag, designed and accepted by the Continental Congress, were taken from Washington's coat of arms and the northern constellation, which meant unity and harmony.

The new idea, Miss Breitenbaugh states, conforms with the ideas of the Continental Congress voiced in Washington's speech, when he said, "A new constellation has arisen which shall shortly flame wide through the skies. We take the stars from heaven, the red from our mother country separating it by white stripes, showing that we have separated from her and the white stripes shall go down to posterity signifying our liberty."

Deferred Wheat Prices Go Down

CHICAGO, May 20.—(AP)—Selling prompted by reports and forecasts of rain in the domestic grain belts dropped prices of wheat for deferred delivery as much as 5⅝ cent a bushel today. The close was ½ cent down to ½ cent up, the latter on May wheat, upon which trading ends Monday.

New crop contracts, July and September, fell to 73¾c and 73½c respectively, down 5⅝ cent. The May contract started steady and later advanced to 80c, within ½ cent of its high mark.

Despite showery weather overnight in the southwest winter wheat area and in parts of the spring wheat belt, most traders apparently were not inclined to believe the trend of recent crop deterioration had been greatly altered. The market received good support on the dips and prices often were near their previous close.

Liverpool wheat quotations closed ⅛ to ½ cent lower, or about as due on the basis of action in the market here yesterday. Rotterdam closed unchanged to ⅜ cent off.

The Winnipeg market was closed for a holiday. Rain fell in the Canadian northwest overnight. Canadian reports, however, said 17,000,000 acres in Canada are only in fair condition and need rain while 4,000,000 acres are in poor condition.

The Kansas City wheat market closed ¼ to ⅜ cent off and Minneapolis ⅛ cent lower.

There were no important price changes in oats and trade was small. Rye maintained a strong undertone in a moderate trade despite some selling by local longs.

Lard prices were about unchanged in a quiet market.

Stocks Show More Activity

NEW YORK, May 20.—(AP)—Stocks were given another moderate upward push today and activity was slightly better than in recent sluggish Saturday's.

Motors, steels and rubbers led the list in an extension of yesterday's recovery gesture, with gains of fractions to more than a point fairly well distributed at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .4 of a point at 45.3, but on the week this composite showed a net loss of .5. The day's turnover amounted to 193,280 shares, which was the best for any two-hour session since April 15. Volume for the week, though, was one of the smallest since June a year ago.

Many traders remained away from boardrooms because of the balmy summery weather and the belief nothing much interesting would happen in the brief proceedings.

The market was aided by a few bright spots in the business news, continued hopes of some form of tax revision by the present congress and the conviction of financial observers that European war dangers are lessening daily.

Support came for the steels on the theory this group may have been oversold notwithstanding price cutting threats to earnings.

Among closing share gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Goodyear, American Telephone, Santa Fe, American Smelting, Kennecott, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Air Reduction, Du Pont, Philip Morris and Douglas aircraft.

Bonds were selectively improved, with U. S. governments inclined to lag. Commodities were mixed. Wheat at Chicago was up ½ cent a bushel to down as much. Corn was off ⅜ to ⅝ cent. Cotton was up 10 cents a bale to off the same. Securities at Amsterdam, the only important foreign market open today, edged upward.

The Tenth Annual Soaring Contest will be held at Elmira, N. Y., from June 24 to July 9, inclusive.

The house was beautiful with many bouquets of iris, peonies and other spring flowers. One bouquet of named varieties of iris was arranged by Mrs. Van Way of Ionia who has 169 varieties in bloom at the present time. Mrs. Colbert had a vase of choice iris, and Mrs. Pohl had a basket of outstanding varieties.

Mrs. A. H. Wilks, club chairman presided over the business meeting at which time the club voted to meet on the third Friday.

The exhibit of peonies and irises was judged by Mrs. I. N. Barry and Mrs. Jas. Allgaier. In the peony class Mrs. E. L. Pulliam, first; Miss Lillis Jones, second; in iris, Mrs. Ada Davis, first; Mrs. E. L. Pulliam, second and Mrs. C. L. Carter, third.

Mrs. G. W. Chambers, flower show chairman, explained the rules and regulations of the coming show and commented on each section and class in order that club members who have flowers to exhibit would enter their choice flowers in the class best suited to them. She is quite anxious that the flower show will be outstanding this year with blossoms that show quality from skillful culture.

Mrs. J. T. Turner gave the principles of flower arrangement that one should observe in making the artistic arrangements that are listed in the flower show schedule. Care must be executed in arranging the large flowers listed, as iris predominating, peonies, oriental poppies, shrubs and vines — as well as — the more delicate flowers used in other artistic and miniature arrangements. Mrs. Carter gave a few points on judging a flower show.

Mrs. C. L. Carter and Mrs. G. W. Chambers, delegates from Club 3 reported on the coinvention of the Federated Garden clubs of Missouri in Jefferson City. The federation is a fast growing organization. Forty new clubs were introduced at the Thursday afternoon meeting. All reports of the clubs throughout the state showed that each was active in civic beautification and was cooperating with the Missouri State Highway department to help beautify Missouri. Interest was high throughout every session as every delegate there was garden minded and eager for new ideas to use in her own club work.

Hon. Lloyd C. Stark, governor of Missouri, a gardener and flower lover, greeted the visiting garden clubs in his genuine hospitable manner. Talks by C. G. Scruggs and S. Herbert Hare were most instructive.

The herb luncheon at the Missouri hotel was a delightful surprise. Every dish was delicately flavored with herbs we use every day in our homes and a few new ones. The address on "Something About Herbs," by Dr. Edgar Anderson was very entertaining and instructive.

Many outstanding and beautiful gardens of the Hawthorne Garden club were visited. The meeting closed with a very lovely reception at the executive mansion for the newly elected state officers who were:

Mrs. J. P. Larson, president, of Webster Groves; Mrs. H. C. Weber, first vice president of Farmington, Mrs. H. A. Gardner, second vice president of Monette; Mrs. T. G. 80 Years Old

J. H. Farley, 1424 South Carr avenue, is celebrating his eightieth birthday today.

Mr. Farley was born in Johnson County, Mo., May 22, 1859 and has resided in Pettis County since he was seven years old. He engaged in farming until four years ago when he retired and moved to Sedalia. He still drives a car and is active in Sunday school and church work, being a member of the First Baptist church. Mr. Farley has missed only two sessions of the Harmony Baptist Association in fifty-eight years, once because of high water and once because of sickness.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Farley, 2221 East Seventh street, are entertaining a number of relatives at a dinner in his honor. He has received many cards and letter of congratulation.

During 1938, 68 per cent of the 42,900,000 registered cars in the world, were registered in the United States, giving us a total of 29,400,000 motor vehicles.

Sedalia Girl In Recital

Something new in senior recitals was introduced, when Miss Leola Reese, soprano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Reese, of this city, and Wilbur Hall, flutist, combined their concerts in a splendid dual preservation in the auditorium of the Oklahoma Agriculture and Mechanical College at Stillwater, Okla., Wednesday night.

Vera Lane, Miss Reese's accompanist, and Professor Daniel Hoffman, who played for Hall, carried the difficult, important piano parts throughout the performance. From the opening Miss Reese seemed to be capable of rendering the foreign numbers as easily as the modern compositions. Her unusual tone quality, range and control benefited her throughout the evening.

Miss Leola Reese

The highlight of the evening was reached when Miss Reese and Mr. Hall gave "Echo Song" by Sir Henry Bishop. They were accompanied in this part by Miss Lane. The encore number, "My Little Nest of Heavenly Blue," composed by Lebor was used as an encore for the soprano and flutist.

Presbyterians Won't Recognize Pacifists

CLEVELAND, May 20.—(AP)—The "conscientious objector" to war service will be denied recognition by the Presbyterian church in the United States of America at its 151st general assembly, it appeared tonight on the basis of pre-assembly reports.

A proposal to amend the church's confession of faith so as not to impair a man's standing in church because of conscientious scruples to war service lacks 36 votes of required two thirds necessary for passage, church officials said.

The general assembly, meeting here May 25-31, will consider further proposed union of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., the Presbyterian church in the United States and the Protestant Episcopal church.

Democrats Advised To Stick Together

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20—(AP)—James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, asserted tonight another victory for the party in the 1940 elections is "within our grasp if we seize the opportunity and march forward, shoulder to shoulder" under the principles of President Roosevelt.

"We face the election of 1940," he said, "with an unparalleled record of achievement for the public welfare. The Republicans face it without a leader, a policy or a program."

The postmaster general spoke at a dinner of San Francisco Young Democrats.

"Someone has very well said," he continued, "that the Republicans are now praying, 'Oh, Lord! help us get rid of Roosevelt and then give us a Roosevelt to take his place."

Mrs. Roosevelt Leads Farm Inspection Trip

WASHINGTON, May 20—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt took her press conference for an outing today to hear cackling hens, squealing pigs, barking dogs, whirring bees and cockroach heartbeats.

Driving Mrs. Henry Morgenthau's pale blue, open roadster, the first lady led a procession of newspaper women's cars to the 1,200-acre national agricultural experiment station at Beltsville, Maryland.

Trailed by 35 members of her press conference, she went from chicken coup to pig pen to dog range for a first hand picture of the government's efforts to develop better poultry, pigs and other livestock.

Never Found What He Wanted Until He Began KruGon's Use

Local Man, 77, Enjoys Good Health Again; Able to Eat Rich, Greasy Foods Without Distress Afterwards; Sharp, Stabbing Pains Gone From Arm and Shoulder

"I have seen the action of many different medicines but my choice of them all is KruGon," said Mr. J. C. Hill, Knobnoster, Mo., Route No. 2, (just west of Sedalia) a well known local gentleman who has lived here in this section most of his life. Everyday local people comment at the McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 West Main Street, this city, of their pleasant experiences with this modern capsule remedy.

"Faulty elimination began my health problems," continued Mr. Hill, "It was several years ago when I began to have trouble with poor digestion. The foods I ate did not seem to do me any good and they would invariably cause me suffering. Rich or greasy foods were out of the question for they would upset me dreadfully. In fact it was hard for me to find foods that would agree with me. Dizzy spells often attacked me too, my sleep and rest was disturbed and I could see myself growing steadily worse. Then severe suffering began when pains developed and settled in my left arm and shoulder. The pain was so sharp and knife-like it rendered my hand almost useless at times. I was at a loss to know what to do as the medicines I had previcusly tried had failed to fit my case. But finally I learned of Krugon and of the surprising results it was giving others in this vicinity so I too began its use and today I am happy over what it has done for me."

"After thinking I was doomed to finish life suffering the way I did I am feeling fine again," continued by Hill, "KruGcn soon relieved my constipation, eliminated those intestinal impurities and soon I was feeling the best I had in years. My digestion is fine and I relish every bite of my meals without any discomfort afterwards. I haven't an ache nor pain over my body today, my shoulder and arm is fine and I have its full use back again. Just think, I spent all kinds of money, traveled to different places seeking relief and then found the results I wanted in a remedy that was brought right home to me . . . KruGon."

KruGon is sold by McFarland and Robinson Drug Co., 104 West Main Street, Sedalia, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

It Happened In America

The present site of San Diego, California, was first visited by Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, a Portuguese navigator, under Spanish flag, on September 28, 1542. It was later named "San Diego" by Don Sebastian Visciano, in honor of San Diego de Alcala, a Spanish Saint. Commemorating Cabrillo's arrival at San Diego, President Woodrow Wilson, on October 14, 1913, by proclamation, set aside about one-half acre of land as a national monument, and which is said to be the smallest in the United States.

After Benedict Arnold escaped to England, following the betrayal of his country, he returned to America in command of a British force under Sir Henry Clinton, and engaged in several expeditions in Virginia. While on one of these, Arnold inquired of an American Captain, whom he had captured, what the Americans would do with him, if he should fall into their hands. The officer replied, that they would cut off his lame leg and bury it with military honors, and hang the remainder of his body in gibbets.

The vast and desolute Kaiparowits Pleateau in Southern Utah, is a scenic and archeologic wonderland. Geologists have found tracks of dinosaur in a ripple-marked sandstone slab. There are also numerous ancient rock paintings several thousand years old, in which the Swastika is a prominent feature, on the towering vermillion cliffs 20 miles southeast of Cannonville. Subjects of the paintings, which are remarkably vivid and well preserved, are powerful square-shouldered men, a woman kneeling, a large red German cross, 14 human hands in various shades of red, green, and yellow, huge butterflies, a number of Swastikas, a man and woman, apparently exercising on a trapeze. There is one mountain about 1,000 feet wide, partially metamorphased by the burning of its coal veins, emiting from scores of abysmal cracks along the mountain top, from the ancient but still living fires.

Under an Act of Congress, passed in January, 1886, in case of a vacancy in both the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States, the Presidentcy develops upon the members of the Cabinet in the historical order of the establishment of their departments, beginning with the Secretary of State. Should he die, be [illegible] disabled, the Secretary of Treasury would become President, to be followed in like crisis by the Secretary of War, he by the Attorney-General, he by the Secretary of the Navy, then in order, the Secretary's of the Interior and Agriculture. This act is still in full force and has never been amended.

Dr. Lewis F. Linn, the Model Senator from Missouri, once was the butt of a laughable incident which occurred in a session of the United States Senate. The occurrence took place during the course of balloting for printer. In the heat of the engagement Dr. Linn, instead of his ballot, deposited a $500 check he had just received from the Sergeant at Arms.

• The Family Doctor

This is the first of three articles in which Dr. Fishbein discusses advances reported at the American Medical Association convention.

Two new advances in medicine accent themselves among the more than 300 discoveries announced by doctors gathered in St. Louis this week at the annual convention of the American Medical Association.

They are:

A new treatment for sudden hemorrhage caused by ulcers of the stomach.

The method for treating the hemorrhage involves administration of small feedings of gelatin, transfusion of blood directly into the veins and repeated light feedings a few days after the hemorrhage has stopped.

The effect of sulfapyridine, a derivative of the sulfanilamide "wonder drug," is hardly short of amazing in treating pneumonia. Uniformly it was reported that this drug produces a prompt fall in the fever and that patients feel better.

If patients are in fairly good condition and if they are given prompt treatment, the recoveries from pneumonia under this new method of treatment are remarkably numerous.

Sulfanilamide appeared in many papers. As in all remedies which have great value, there is also the possibility of it harming people who are oversensitive to the drug and whom it affects adversely.

Many people have mild symptoms like weakness, headache or nausea after taking the drug. These milder symptoms are not a matter of great worry to the doctor but the severe symptoms cause him concern.

If patients turn blue because of the effects of the drug on the blood, if they have severe vomiting or diarrhea, if there are changes in the blood cells or mental disturbances following the administration of the drug, the doctor will probably stop administration immediately.

Therefore, whenever a patient is receiving large doses of sulfanilamide or its derivatives, the doctor examines the patient every day, makes frequent studies of the blood avoids other drugs which may form dangerous combinations with the sulfanilamide and may give large doses of sodium bicarbonate to overcome any acid effects of sulfanilamide.

Striking were the announcements about oxygen which is developing increased uses in medicine, particularly for shock and for the relief of headache after any of the procedures affecting the brain.

Specialists in diseases of the eye are now greatly concerned with glaucoma, an insidious condition in which the drainage of fluid through the eye is blocked with increased tension and eventual loss of sight.

Nowadays, we know that early detection is of the utmost importance if sight is to be saved. Eye surgery specialists have developed new operations which can be applied with little danger.

In over 90 per cent of cases the progress of the disease was stopped by such operative procedures and in 60 per cent of cases the condition of the eye was restored to normal after the operation. In one operation narrow strips of magnesium, an unusual metal, were implanted in the course of the operation in order to arrange a drainage canal within the eye.

Strange cases in which human beings turned blue after the use of preparations containing silver within the nose were shown to the specialists in diseases of the nose and throat. Experiments now are being performed on animals to determine how silver salts are absorbed in this way. It seems likely that new investigations will lead to suitable control of these conditions.

The problems of the care of the aged received special attention when Dr. E. L. Touhy pointed out that the diet of older people needs even more vitamins than the diets of younger people. He cited, too, that the fields, the gardens or the grocery stores are still the correct place for supplying the foods that contain the vitamins.

For normal people these foods are better than vitamin tablets purchased either from the drug store, the grocery store or the barber shop. There is no need for people to develop vitamin-tablet habit. People were eating food for a long time before we knew there were vitamins.

Don't Mince Words With A Bad Loser

By Olive Roberts Barton

Two children were playing casino.

The boy took a trick that did not belong to him and piled it up with his stack.

"See here, Buddy, that was Sister's trick. Those were her sevens," his mother remarked. "Sis said 'Building' and you laid another seven on her two and took them in."

Buddy shoved the three cards over grudgingly.

By and by there was another squabble. "He took a turn that wasn't his, just because he knew I had big casino, mother," said the girl.

"That's right. Squeal. Girls don't know how to play. They can't take a joke."

Mother goes over to the table again. "Buddy, if you can't play honestly, then don't play at all."

"I don't want to play anyway. I only said I would to please Sis."

Giving It To Her Straight

If I had been that young fellow's mother I would have told him something — and not beginning with "Darling, I want to talk to you," either.

"So, son," I'd begin, "you can't lose, can you, and especially not to a girl? Well, you have lost a lot more than you think, right this minute. And to a great big girl. I am the girl you have lost out with. I think you are pretty dishonorable, that's what I think. Sis is younger than you are but she is a better loser.

"Now listen to me, Buddy; try to get this through your head. You may as well now, as later on, when the whole world will see you for what you are. If you can't bear to lose at any game, with girls or boys or just anybody at all, don't play. Don't play ball, don't run races, don't enter contests and do not play games.

"If you are a bad loser, you will learn to hate the people who win. If losing means so much to you that you have to break the rules, then you are far safer out of the whole business. Anyone who can't lose and say "That's O. K.' and forget about it, has no right to try for anything."

It is one time that a parent has to aim straight from the shoulder. The sooner a child learns that the world won't care much for the hard loser and the unfair player, the better.

Fiji—Where Etiquet Is Everything

THEIR life is primitive but etiquet nevertheless is everything to the Fijians. Islanders have been murdered for simple breaches of it and even the slightest faux pas is a social insult.

The Fijians, of course, don't turn to any bulky best-selling volume for the final word on who enters a boat first, the man or the woman, or who sits on the right-hand of the village chief at tribal feasts. There isn't any Fijian etiquet authority and neither do the manners change. The Fijians rely on a code as old as these South Sea peoples are themselves.

Every Fiji islander learns the rules for this occasion and that. Take the matter of meals, for instance. No Fiji woman would consider it good form to sit down to dinner with her husband or other male member of the family. The men are seated first, the women serve and fan the flies off the delicacies. Then as the men finish the women clap cupped hands and sit down themselves.

As a British colony, Fiji issues its own stamps, one of which, a current pictorial, is shown above.

Political Career Of Trusten Polk

Twelfth Governor Of Missouri Was Also U. S. Senator

(Compiled by The State Historical Society of Missouri, at Columbia.)

The political career of Trusten Polk, twelfth governor of Missouri, came to a close with the outbreak of the Civil war. Rather than be false to his pro-slavery convictions, Polk absented himself from his seat in the United States Senate during the Congressional session beginning in December, 1861. That winter he campaigned the State as a Secessionist, and later, like many noted Missourians, he fought in defense of the South.

Trusten Polk was born on May 29, 1811, one hundred and twenty-eight years ago this week, in Sussex County, Delaware. After graduating from Yale College he came to St. Louis. He opened a law office there in 1835, and was soon recognized as a conscientious and capable young lawyer. He received his first public office in 1843, when he became city counselor of St. Louis.

Two years later he was a delegate to the State constitutional convention, where, as chairman of the committee on education, he sponsored a proposed article providing for free public schools. He also took an active part in the work of the convention on the subject of banks and corporations. In 1845 he was one of the incorporators of the Missouri Historical and Philosophical Society, and three years later he was a presidential elector on the Democratic ticket of Cass and Butler.

Against Benton

Polk, not agreeing with the policy of his party leaders and being ambitious for political honors, entered into an agreement with other Missouri Democrats to break the power of Thomas Hart Benton. He became a gubernatorial candidate in opposition to Benton in 1856 and in a hotly contested campaign defeated the great senator.

Soon after his inauguration as governor, on January 5, 1857, he was elected United States senator to succeed Henry S. Geyer, again defeating Benton as well as Hamilton R. Gamble. His resignation as governor became effective February 27, 1857, making his occupancy of that office shorter than that of any other Missouri governor.

There was nothing especially outstanding about Polk's career in the United States Senate. As friction increased between the northern and southern elements his sympathies for the South grew. He absented himself from the session which began on December 2, 1861. His absence during one of the most critical periods in the nation's history led to the introduction of a resolution for his expulsion.

Expelled From Senate

The Committee on Judiciary, to which the resolution was referred, found him guilty of making secession speeches and of being openly engaged in rebellion against the government. He was also accused of helping finance secession newspapers in southwest Missouri. After considering the report the Senate voted unanimously for expulsion, on January 10, 1862. Lieutenant-governor Willard P. Hall appointed John Brooks Henderson, of Pike County, as his successor.

With the outbreak of hostilities Polk went to New Madrid, Missouri, where he enlisted in the Confederate army. He served as a colonel, and was the presiding military judge of the Department of the Mississippi during 1864 and 1865.

At the close of the war he accompanied General Joseph O. Shelby to Mexico, but soon returned and resumed his law practice in St. Louis. He died there on April 16, 1876, and was buried in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Heads Power Firm

William McClellan (above) of Washington, has been named acting president of the Union Electric Co. of Missouri in a shake-up of officials of the company.

McElroy Is In Bad Shape

Former Manager's Illness Worse; Is Due To Strain

KANSAS CITY, May 20—(AP)—The Illness of Henry F. McElroy, 73-year-old former city manager, took a turn for the worse today but his physician, Dr. Max Goldman, said his condition was "not immediately dangerous."

McElroy's pulse is weaker, Dr. Goldman said, and he has suffered recurrent attacks of dizziness since an operation 10 days ago for removal of a cataract from the left eye. An operation for removal of a cataract from the other eye is planned within two weeks if his condition permits.

"I attribute McElroy's relapse to the strain he has been under the last few days," the physician said. "He is allowed no callers at the hospital (St. Mary's) except his daughter, Mary, and son, Henry, Jr., who stay but a few minutes."

McElroy, a lieutenant of T. J. Pendergast, indicted head of the Kansas City Democratic organization, resigned several weeks ago during an inquiry into city hall affairs.

McElroy's illness has delayed an accounting sought by Mayor Bryce B. Smith and Eugene C. Zachman, temporary city manager. McElroy has said all money in this fund was used in the city's business and he would make a full explanation when his health permitted.
